GENERAL NEWS.

[illegible]'s Foreign Policy the General Subject of Conversation.

[illegible]GATES FROM DAKOTA EXCEEDING THEIR INSTRUCTIONS.

[illegible] of a California Girl at Chicago—Oscar Wilde Guyed by Harvard Students at Boston.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible]cago, Jan. 31.—A Washington special says: [illegible] seems to be a question of veracity between [illegible] president and Blaine as to whether the president [illegible] letter of instructions to Trescott before it [illegible]. Blaine yesterday said the president saw [illegible] letter. A member of the administration well [illegible] says the facts are that the president saw a [illegible] the letter of instructions in the hands of [illegible] suggested some changes, but the instructions [illegible] were ultimately sent to Trescott were [illegible] instructions the president directed to be [illegible] were substantially the original draft as [illegible] by Blaine with the express modifications di[illegible] be made by the president omitted. A gen[illegible] connected with the Peruvian company said [illegible] which certain newspapers are making [illegible] that Secretary Blaine was in any respect [illegible] with the Peruvian company are absolute[illegible]. The objects of the Peruvian company are [illegible] way and to the enmity to Chili and secure [illegible] exchange therefor recognition by the [illegible] of Peru of the Cochet claim of [illegible] of the discoveries made by them of guano [illegible] deposits. The government of Peru had [illegible] this one-third to every discovery of valu[illegible] deposits upon its public domain, and Cochet's [illegible] at least $500,000,000 due from Peru by vir[illegible] discovery cannot be gainsayed. His claim is [illegible] the Peruvian Co., and that company is [illegible] of American citizens. Blaine, as the pub[illegible] correspondence of the state department will [illegible] to recognize Mr. Shephard or the rights [illegible] company. He maintained it was a sub[illegible] future determination by Peru. Had the ad[illegible] ever resolutely opposed annexation of [illegible] territory by Chili as Blaine desired, the [illegible] company would have cared very little [illegible] of Blaine or any other individ[illegible] is $300,000,000 in debt and her securities [illegible] worthless. The estimated value of [illegible] claim with accrued interest is $1,200,- [illegible]. You will see how utterly impossible it was [illegible] alone to have paid her outstanding in[illegible], but to have satisfied the Peruvian Co., [illegible] where the strength of the company lay. [illegible] resources of the guano deposits are [illegible] more than the most extravagant [illegible] placed upon the Cochet claim. A more [illegible] knowledge of the facts connected with [illegible] claims is likely to show that Grant is [illegible] deserving of censure as Shephard and [illegible] at least as Shephard, for both Grant [illegible] are private citizens. Grant, unless [illegible] misrepresented by Shephard, was an [illegible] of nitrate schemes. His name [illegible] used here by Shephard in support of his [illegible], and it is known that he was to be [illegible] 300 who hoped to secure the in[illegible] the United States government to further [illegible] interests. The state department sup[illegible] names that appear in the Shephard [illegible]. Of these 45 were of private firms, [illegible] were public men.

[illegible] Correspondent's View.

[illegible] Advertiser correspondent says: It [illegible] a somewhat significant fact that al[illegible] of the members of the present admin[illegible] at the same cabinet table with the late [illegible] had an opportunity of consulting him [illegible] did not know what policy was being [illegible] reference to Chili and Peru. No one [illegible] that the president had every confidence [illegible] trusted him to the fullest extent in [illegible] of diplomacy, but notwithstanding all [illegible] purposes were either not fully ex[illegible] entirely misunderstood. Blaine [illegible] communicative to his associates in the cab[illegible] saw the president when he thought [illegible] of the business on hand justified it. [illegible] pronunciamento is regarded by many [illegible] as evidence that he intends to [illegible] and strike the administration [illegible] him politically to do so.

[illegible] the General Subject of Talk.

[illegible] Feb. 1.—Specials from Washington [illegible] position and views of Blaine in regard to [illegible] American policy of the United States con[illegible] subject of general conversation. A [illegible] says the personal contest, for [illegible] as political, between President [illegible] grows more and more intensified [illegible] day by day to the public. [illegible] president say that Blaine is staking [illegible] on the turn of the tide one way [illegible] will resort to every means to pro[illegible]. The president is un[illegible] very deeply the attempt of Blaine [illegible] as a timid and inconsistent man, [illegible] Blaine overstepped the bounds [illegible] but almost of subordination [illegible] career at the head of the state depart[illegible] urged that Blaine was actuated [illegible] motives and a legitimate am[illegible] presidency than by a wish to benefit [illegible] friends peculiarly. Blaine does not [illegible] and talks about the future with his [illegible] and aggressiveness. He claims that [illegible] wish to go into speculation back of [illegible] imbroglio he can show men in[illegible] as near to Arthur as anybody can [illegible]. Politicians are watching the pro[illegible] with the keenest interest.

[illegible] Silk Culture Association.

[illegible] Jan. 31.—The Women's Silk Cul[illegible] opened its first exhibition this [illegible] George's hall. Its aim is to enlist [illegible] success of domestic silk-growing [illegible] benefits to be derived by women [illegible] rural homes. The society has [illegible] less than two years, but in that [illegible] eggs and slips of mulberry [illegible] in nearly every state of the [illegible] by the worms at the houses [illegible] taken hold of the new industry [illegible] by the society. One ounce of [illegible] dollars, and worms hatched from [illegible] cocoons. The society pays one [illegible] cocoons, from which the silk is [illegible] pound of cocoons making about [illegible] pound of silk. The reeling is done [illegible] of the society. At the opening [illegible] Mayor King, ex-Governor Pol[illegible] Rev. Dr. V. H. Tiffany [illegible] speakers. Of the officers and found[illegible] there were present Mrs. John [illegible] Mrs. W. B. Eltonhead, Chas. D. [illegible] Bishop Simpson, vice presidents. [illegible] by a city firm for the best ex[illegible] called out twenty-five competi[illegible] from southern states. In all [illegible] thirty exhibitors of cocoons, floss [illegible]. Cocoons are shown surrounded [illegible] the worms on branches, and also [illegible] small paper horns according [illegible], as well as packed in bottles [illegible] single, double and placed cocoons [illegible] silk worm eggs and specimens [illegible] moths. Especially interesting [illegible] silk of foreign and domestic [illegible] silk of a new species fed on osage [illegible] by Prof. C. V. Riley, of the U. S. [illegible] agriculture. The process of reeling [illegible] illustrated this evening, and plush, [illegible] looms were in operation. There is [illegible] variety of manufactured silk goods, in[illegible] hand painted screens and banners.

[illegible] of a Foolish Girl.

[illegible] Feb. 1.—The Times says: Miss Belle [illegible] Oakland, California, has told a sensa[illegible] police headquarters of some curious [illegible] left Oakland about two weeks ago, [illegible] visit friends at Tucson, Arizona. On [illegible] met a handsome young fellow, who [illegible] name of Walter H. Chase, and who suc[illegible] capturing her affections. He induced her [illegible] with him to Chicago, promising to marry [illegible] on their arrival. They arrived [illegible] the end of the week, registering at [illegible] as "W. B. Hunt and wife." Chase [illegible] they should spend Sunday seeing the [illegible] town, and they would get married the [illegible] deposited her satchel, with $100 worth [illegible] $1400 in money, in the safe of the [illegible] early hour Monday, however, he left [illegible] wife quietly sleeping, and going to the [illegible] for the satchel. He got it and they [illegible] his face no more. Miss Metzger is a [illegible] interesting girl, about 23 years old. [illegible] left her absolutely penniless, and her [illegible] seized by the hotel on account of her [illegible] bill. After her wild escapade she is [illegible] about appealing to friends in Cali[illegible].

[illegible]ceeding their Instructions.

[illegible] Feb. 1.—In response to the statement [illegible] by the associated press that the Black [illegible] delegation at Washington had re[illegible] removal of Governor Ordway, the fol[illegible] telegram, numerously signed by leading cit[illegible] the Black Hills, was forwarded to the [illegible] the delegation and published in the [illegible]: "The delegation from the Black Hills [illegible] in Washington to make a fight on Gov. [illegible] dispatches indicate, but to work for the [illegible] admission of Dakota as a state. In [illegible] the removal of the governor they not [illegible] their instructions, but misrepresent [illegible] of Dakota."

Small Transactions.

[illegible] Feb. 1.—The Post says: The amount [illegible] Europe to-day is from present accounts, [illegible] $400,000, more than half of which repre[illegible] special transactions, the shipper being his [illegible]. The smallness of the specie shipment [illegible] favorable tenor of foreign advices, have [illegible] improved the tone of the stock exchange.

[illegible] Convention of Agriculturists.

[illegible] annual convention of the American Agri[illegible] Association was held to-day. About seven[illegible] were present from different parts of [illegible] States. President Sprague delivered his [illegible] address, and spoke at length on agricultural [illegible] comparing this country with other coun[illegible] showing that the United States led in [illegible] production. Letters of regret were read [illegible] Arthur, Gov. Foster of Ohio, Gov. [illegible] of Mc[illegible], T. W. Hill and [illegible] Evarts, [illegible] of Kentucky and many others.

Profit in Gold Shipments.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The Evening Post says: The amount of gold which will be exported from this country [illegible] to the foreign market is variously estimated at from five to twenty million dollars. There is now a profit in the exporting market, which is equivalent to saying that gold is the cheapest commodity we can ship. The Bothnia, which sails to-morrow, takes a million and a half in gold.

Rates by Rail.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Commissioner Fink's late circular states that since rates to the Mississippi river will be variable until July 1st, they will be bound by the Southwestern association rate from Chicago to the Mississippi river on freight from Boston, New York or Philadelphia, which will be 20 per cent. of the total rate to the Mississippi river, and from Baltimore 18 per cent.

Just too Utterly Intense.

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—Oscar Wilde attracted to Music Hall last evening an audience which filled every seat. Sixty Harvard students appeared in full dress coats and knee breeches, and carrying lilies and sunflowers. The esthete was heartily guyed and showed unmistakable anger.

Fires at Lockport.

LOCKPORT, Feb. 1.—Three flour mills were burned to-day. Loss $100,000. Several firemen were hurt and the assistant chief engineer killed. Several other buildings were destroyed by fire this morning. Loss and insurance unknown.

New York Stock Quotations.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Silver bars 114, money 6@1-64 per diem; governments, strong, higher; stocks, strong, higher: W. U., 80¾; Quicksilver, 12½; Pacific, 41¼; Mariposa, 4; Wells, Fargo, 128; N. Y. C., 130¼; Erie, 39¼; Panama, 195; U. P., 117; bonds, 115¼; C. P. 88¾; bonds, 113¾; Sutro, ⅞.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Day for Discussion of Page's Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Representative Page has obtained unanimous consent of the house for assignment of next Tuesday for consideration of the Chinese bill reported by him from the committee on education and labor, upon condition that this assignment shall not interfere with the apportionment bill now on the house calendar, if it shall have been reached for action. He did not ask for the assignment of an earlier day because he wished to avoid any appearance of trying to crowd the house bill through in advance of the senate measure, which Gen. Miller hoped to bring up to-morrow; and for the reason also that the expected discussion and action on this subject in the senate would probably facilitate similar favorable action in the house. Allowing for all ordinary delays, however, there seems to be very little doubt that within the next two or three weeks some practical measure for restriction of Chinese emigration will pass both houses of congress and take its place upon the statute book.

Delay of the Chinese Bill.

When Senator Miller last week gave notice that he would ask the senate to take up the Chinese bill on the first day of February, it was generally believed that the 3 per cent. funding bill would by that time be out of the way, but as the latter measure is still undisposed of, there is no probability of any opportunity being found to call any other business. There are also other obstacles in the way of bringing the Chinese bill before the senate for action this week, arising from notice given by various senators prior to General Miller's, that they desired to make speeches on the tariff commission bill as soon as the funding bill should be disposed of, and on the whole it now seems likely that the Chinese bill will not be reached in the senate before the middle of next week at the earliest.

Reasons for Delay in Sargent's Nomination.

Ex-Senator Sargent's nomination as secretary of the interior was not sent in to-day as originally intended, for the reason mainly that the Sobrante case has not yet reached a point of final action in the interior department, and Sargent of course is not willing to have it left over for his decision, as he has been and still is an attorney in the case in behalf of the settlers. The unexpectedly long delay in its decision by Secretary Kirkwood has been caused by the voluminous character of papers and the pressure of current daily business of the sort which does not admit of postponement, but the cause is now before the secretary and he promises to announce a decision within the next few days. It is possible there may be a slight additional delay in Sargent's appointment in order to afford Secretary Kirkwood time to close up some other unfinished business, but Sargent's friends (including Senator Miller who visited the white house this forenoon) say there has been no change in President Arthur's purpose to place him in charge of the interior department, just as soon as those various considerations of propriety and personal convenience will permit.

Pacheco and a Foreign Mission.

Congressman Pacheco's attention was yesterday called to the published statement that he thinks he would make an excellent minister to Chili, and would like to step into General Kilpatrick's shoes. Pacheco replied that the statement is wholly unfounded and that he has no ambition in that direction. There is some reason to believe, however, that the governor would not decline an appointment as minister to Mexico, for which he is specially fitted by his familiarity with the Spanish language and his personal acquaintance with Mexican authorities.

More Frauds Reported.

Senator Van Wyck has obtained a number of facts supporting his charge of fraud in western land surveys, and will speak on the subject as soon as he gets the floor. Among other things, he will show that the cost of western surveys is enormously disproportionate to the sales of land. His charges have considerably aroused the officers implicated. Benson, for some years connected with land surveys in the west, is here banqueting western members. It is asserted Benson is here in the interest of an alleged ring which includes most surveyors general, to attempt to defeat Van Wyck.

Arthur's Delay in Making Appointments.

Some republican senators are very much disappointed because nominations they expected have not been sent in. Several western senators who called upon the president again to-day in regard to appointments were once more told they would have to wait a few days, and they left the White House in anything but good humor. Impatience at the president's delay is beginning to manifest itself quite freely. There is much speculation as to his motive for delaying nominations, but nobody seems to be able to explain it.

Star Route Testimony.

E. A. Boom testified in the star route trials that he had brought the question of sureties for mail route bids and contracts before Postmaster General Tyner in 1877, and that the latter had ruled that the department must receive when offered one and the same surety on different bids and contracts, so long as such surety demonstrated his ability to meet any loss resulting from the contractor's inability to perform the service stipulated on each particular route.

Looking out for the Cobb Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Ex-Commissioner of Patents Marble, now land commissioner of the N. P. R. R. is here, and has been in conference with congressmen. He is here, it is said, to watch the Cobb Bill and kindred measures in relation to forfeiture of land grants. He said the Northern Pacific Company was not apprehensive of losing its land and that the company and its officers were entirely satisfied with the reference of the Cobb bill to the judiciary committee.

A Naval Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Secretary Hunt has written a circular letter to officers and men of the United States navy, commending their attention to a circular issued by the society of the Army of the Cumberland, in reference to the erection of a monument to the memory of the late President James A. Garfield, in a public square of the city of Washington.

A Reconsideration Wanted.

Saunders will move a reconsideration of the vote by which Plumb's amendment to the Sherman bill was passed. Sherman says if the Plumb amendment becomes part of the bill, he will abandon the bill or surrender it to Plumb and vote against it.

Reducing Postage.

Hill introduced a bill reducing the postage on letters or sealed packages to two cents for each half ounce, under two ounces and for each additional two ounces or fraction thereof two cents; referred.

The Postoffice Bill.

The house went into committee of the whole on the postoffice appropriations bill. It appropriates $43,329,000. It is estimated $42,141,000 revenue will be derived from the department. The committee cut down several of the estimates and refused to appropriate over $50,000 for extending the carrier system.

Probably a Crank.

A. W. Von Schmidt is to bring suit against the United States in the court of claims for alleged infringement of his patent of the method of removing submerged rocks, which has been used by the government in removal of obstructions at Hallett's point and other places.

An Unfulfilled Promise.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The ways and means committee are at sea on the tariff question. It is evident the promise made by Haskell that the bill would be reported this week will not be kept.

After the Mexican Mission.

Friends of Col. Pitkin, ex-U. S. marshal of Louisiana, claim he will get the Mexican mission. He was an applicant for it under President Garfield and had very strong backing. Grant appointed him U. S. marshal. He still has Grant's friendship. Casill of St. Louis, is also asking for the place.

Summing up their Work.

The sub-committee on the contingent fund investigation have turned the work of summing up investigation over to Senator Cockrell, and the inquiry will soon be concluded.

Death of the Sherman Bill!

Vest's amendment to the Sherman funding bill was rejected, 33 to 25; Plumb for it and all republicans and four democrats against it. This will probably kill the bill.

The Star Route Trial.

Straw-bond star route cases were up again to-day and most of the time occupied by argument concerning the production in court of certain bids and their contracts.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The Austrian Insurrection Rapidly Increasing.

THE INSURGENTS GAIN SEVERAL SLIGHT VICTORIES.

Fearful Loss of Fishermen at the Mouth of the Volga River—Union Generale Notes, etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—On Monday an Austrian detachment, conveying arms and powder between Krassinge and Potocka, was routed and the convoy captured.

There has been another desperate encounter near Bilecke, with a loss of 20 men on each side.

Thirty-five men from a Dalmatian regiment, have deserted to the rebels, and calling out the Dalmatian landwehr has been postponed, because of their known disaffection.

Austria is making stupendous efforts to have a contract signed with the Austrian Lloyds to transport 30,000 men to south Dalmatian points, and nine large steamers to be continually employed.

There was a false alarm recently at Castelnuovo, Dalmatia, and the Austrian commandant Jokanovich, fearing a general rising, threatened to bombard the city from the port.

Three battalions encountered 1000 insurgents on the 27th ult., on the banks of the Naventa, and the rebels losing considerably retreated.

The Latest from the Jeannette Survivors.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A Herald's special from Irkutsk, dated January 31st, says: Lieut. DeLong's party has been traced to a definite locality on the west bank of the Lena. Engineer Melville and Russians are searching ardently. I am under positive orders and will bear investigation. Lieut. Chipps' little boat has not been seen since September. A gale doubtless swamped her. If she is not found before spring, I will charter the steamer Lena and search first between the river Olenok and Kolyma. Jack Coles has been an invalid since October last. The Jeannette entered the ice near Herald island, September 6, 1879. Her forefoot was twisted from the 1st of January and we pumped for 18 months. The vessel drifted to the northwest during 21 months and she was crushed and sank on June 12, 1881, in latitude 75 degrees 15 minutes north, and longitude 156, 20. She discovered Jeannette, Henrietta and Bennett islands. We made our retreat over the ice to near Siberia islands, and thence in boats to the Lena delta. Engineer Melville was given charge of the boat by DeLong, as I was blind. Hearty and intelligent help was rendered by Russians and everything possible is being done.

JOHN W. DANENHOWER.

Instructions Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Secretary Hunt received the following to-day:

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 1.

To Secretary Hunt, Washington: Danenhower telegraphs: "Report my arrival with nine seamen sick. I am better. DeLong is traced to a definite locality in which Melville and Russians are searching ardently. If a ship is not found before spring, may I charter a steamer and search the coast islands between the rivers Olenok and Kolyma. If yes, send two active line officers to assist. Co-operation by authorities is hearty and intelligent."

HOFFMAN.

Danenhower Ordered Home.

The secretary of the navy received the following this morning:

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 31.

Hunt, Washington:—Danenhower with nine men await orders at Irkutsk.

HOFFMAN.

In reply Secretary Hunt telegraphed for Danenhower and party to return to the United States as soon as practicable, and for Melville and party to continue search after the DeLong party as long as the slightest hopes of recovery remain.

Financial Notes from Paris.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Paris special: The government is openly charged, not only by the public, but by several newspapers of this city, with favoring the schemes of the manager of Union Generale, Bontoux, and are in a manner responsible for the losses. It was reported on trustworthy authority that the deficit reached 96,000,000 francs. A dispatch from Vienna says the question of the failure of Union Generale will be brought before the Austrian reichsrath at an early day, as it is hinted that the minister of finance who is expected to resign, had something to do with Mr. Bontoux's schemes. At the Paris and Petits bourses stock markets under the influence of the syndicate of bankers closed steadier with slight reaction. A judicial inquiry has been commenced into the affairs of the Union Generale, and a corps of experts are now engaged in examining accounts. In the chamber of deputies today M. Andriex moved that the government intervene to check a panic.

A Depressing State of Affairs.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The Bourse was depressed to-day owing to deplorable accounts which reached brokers from provincial clients entailing heavier losses on brokers than was expected, but arrangements with official markets keep good, and saving unforeseen events a settlement will be regularly overcome. Troops guard the office of the Union Generale at Lyons to prevent the populace entering them. Union Generale has paid all engagements at Rome. Count de Chambord, as well as persons of high position among the Austrian clergy and aristocracy, lost heavily by the failure.

Union Generale Notes.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—It is believed legal proceedings will be commenced against Union Generale.

It is stated the suspension was caused by the refusal of Lander bank to pay 17,000,000 francs which have been depended upon to enable Union Generale to meet its liabilities.

Thirty-one strong boxes in Union Generale's vaults were found empty, and an examination of its books proves that when Bontoux stated its profits were 67,000,000 francs, there was really a deficit of 90,000,000 francs.

Bank Shares Falling.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—The bourse was generally depressed to-day. Suez canal shares fell off 105 francs and Ottoman bank shares 40 francs.

The New French Prospectus.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—In the chamber of deputies to-day De Freycinet read the programme of the new cabinet. It sets forth that the policy of the government will be one, above all, calculated to establish peace in the minds of the people at home and abroad. It will be firm and conciliatory, and will apply in a liberal sense the laws relative to the press and right of public meetings. While maintaining the rights of the statutes, revision of the constitution ought to be postponed until expiration of the term of the present legislature. Judicial, military and educational reforms initiated by the late cabinet will be persevered in with their best efforts.

London Money Market.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—At the exchange during this afternoon, the stock market being influenced by fears of a decrease in the money market and flatter prices in Paris, became gloomy, but toward the close there was a recovery in prices on its being announced that the bullion drawn out was much smaller than at first anticipated, only £90,000 being taken for France, while orders for shipment of £30,000 had been countermanded. The market closed quiet and firm.

Taffy from the Times.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Times, in a leading article, says: The mediation in South American affairs, such as Frelinghuysen has commissioned Trescott to undertake, is tainted with no design of private profit for the arbitrators except that which peace must bring to all. Englishmen must be permitted to regard the attempt with as sincere good will as if devised on their special behalf.

Heavy Reductions in Rents.

CORK, Feb. 1.—The commissioners under the land act made remarkable reductions in rent yesterday. The rent of a farm on Lord Egmont's property was reduced from £84 to £33, and the rents of several others reduced 45 per cent.

Russia's Latest Scheme.

ST PETERSBURG, Feb. 1.—The government of Russia is contemplating annexation of territory on the ground of insecurity of Russian possessions on the Pacific and the warlike disposition of China. Japan favors the plan and it is concluded the United States will not interfere in favor of China in consequence of the bad feeling against Chinese prevalent on the Pacific coast.

Fearful Loss of Life.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—A special from St. Petersburg says: While a fleet of fishing vessels were engaged at the mouth of the Volga, near Astrakhan, a hurricane, which came up very suddenly, broke the ice, destroying all the boats, and 600 fishermen perished. The storm also did much damage at Moscow, besides unroofing the new exhibition building.

January Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The debt statement shows the reduction of the public debt during January, to be $12,978,816; cash in treasury, $246,023,463; gold certificates outstanding, $5,188,120; silver certificates $66,9?0,630; certificate of deposit, $11,400,000; refunding certificates, 1552,190; legal tenders, $346,681,016; fractional currency, $7,069,431; cash balance available, $1,139,616,535.

The Kasson Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The sub-committee of the house committee on ways and means reported to the full committee a bill known as the Kasson bill, providing for a commission of nine civilians, to be known as tariff commissioners, and recommend that the bill be favorably reported to the house as soon as practicable.

Senator Hoar presented a petition in congress Tuesday, from officers of the Missouri woman suffrage association, protesting against disfranchisement of women in Utah, and praying for the extirpation of polygamy.

"I can highly recommend the well known German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, to all afflicted with either rheumatism or neuralgia, as it has never failed to cure," writes Mr. F. Huhn, 804 H street, N. E. Washington, D. C.

The amount of spirits in distillery warehouses on January 1, 1882, was 72,860,614 taxable gallons,—about 40,000,000 gallons in excess of last year.

GUITEAU ON ICE.

An Enterprising Philadelphian Proposes to Freeze Guiteau's Body by a Patent Process, and Exhibit it throughout the World.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—A dispatch from Washington to-day's Press says: [illegible] received a letter from a friend in Philadelphia [illegible] the manufacture of [illegible] and cooling apparatus, proposing to preserve [illegible] immediately after death, and to place it on exhibition in this country and Europe, half of the proceeds of exhibition to be paid to Guiteau's relatives. After considerable search it was ascertained that J. H. Ridgway, 345 Race street, was the party who made the offer.

"Can you give me any information in regard to this proposition?" asked the reporter, calling Ridgway's attention to the dispatch.

"It is a curious coincidence," said he, "that just as you entered my office I finished reading a letter received but a moment before from Washington. Here it is."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

J. H. Ridgway—DEAR SIR: Yours of the 25th inst. received. The relatives are inclined to regard your proposition favorably. In case of death the brain will have to be removed for post mortem.

GEORGE SCOVILLE.

"The letter which I wrote Scoville last week contained this proposition. I am to have possession of the body of Guiteau immediately after death. I shall then have it preserved in a refrigerating apparatus upon which I have a patent. The body will be placed on exhibition in all the principal cities of this country, under my supervision, and afterward be taken to Europe. I will pay over half the receipts to the relatives of Guiteau, and the other half will be at my disposal. This is the agreement. Now I will describe the apparatus. I will have built a sort of case about 10 feet square. The sides of the case will be of glass, so that the whole interior will be plainly visible. Attached to the fourth side will be the refrigerating apparatus. This consists of a series of "V" shaped metallic troughs extending from side to side of the room in a slanting manner. In these troughs are placed a freezing mixture composed chiefly of ice and salt. This apparatus will preserve the body perfectly, as a continuous current of air is created which can be constantly kept at a freezing temperature. I intend to have the interior made as attractive as possible. It will be elegantly upholstered, and the metallic cooling apparatus will be concealed by silk hangings. I have not yet decided how the body shall be disposed, but it will be arranged so as to look as natural as possible. The form will be dressed just as in life, and the features will retain the expression had immediately after it became fixed in death. This will result from the state of perfect preservation in which the entire corpse will be retained by the refrigerating apparatus."

"How do you propose to transport the case from city to city, was asked?"

"Oh, I will have a refrigerator car built expressly for that purpose. I have already made partial arrangements for having it built, desiring to anticipate Scoville's acquiescence to my proposition. The case will be carried in this way as a double precaution against any accident which might result from its own cooling apparatus getting out of order. I will have personal charge of the enterprise and will supervise the exhibition in various cities. We will visit the chief cities of this country and then go to Europe and probably exhibit the body in all the principal towns of that continent. I think we will do even better, financially, there than in this country. In London, especially, I will get large returns."

"Will the people of the United States want to see such a spectacle?"

"Well, I rather guess they will. I haven't the slightest doubt of success from that point of view. Why, in every city I expect to engage the largest and most prominent place of amusement for exhibition, and am confident of being completely satisfied with the financial result to myself. I expect to make an outlay of at least $25,000, fitting up an exhibition case and refrigerating car, you can realize the scale on which I propose to conduct this enterprise. I wrote Guiteau soon after the trial began making a similar offer to him. He wrote a reply, saying he was disposed to regard my proposition with favor, but would have to refer me to his counsel. I have no feeling for Guiteau one way or the other. He is simply a condemned criminal. This is a business matter with me. I don't know what Guiteau's relations think about it, but they are poor, and it seems to me that after all the abuse they have received from him during the trial and all they have had to suffer in consequence of his act, they ought to have some recompense now. I haven't a doubt that their share of the proceeds from this enterprise will amount to between $40,000 and $50,000. This will be some consolation for them after what they have suffered. I am conducting this enterprise alone, but there is plenty of capital to back it."

THE NEW YORK FIRE.

Additional Incidents of the Conflagration—Estimated Losses and Accidents.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Col. Leslie C. Bruce of the Turf, Field and Farm, was in his office on the third floor, when he heard a cry of fire. Fourteen persons were in his office, but they all got out safely by way of the stairs. Bruce stayed to throw the subscription books into the street and was overtaken by the fire. He succeeded, however, in locking his safe and fled through a window. On the coping under the windows he crept to the Times building and was saved. He states the loss of the Turf, Field and Farm not over $25,000; not insured. His library can be replaced for $10,000. Among the articles burned were rifles used by L. C. Bruce in the international rifle match and prizes won in his many contests. The paper will be issued as usual from 12 Barclay street. The statement is made that fifty persons employed in the patent office of Munn & Co. and on the Scientific American, all got out safely. Richard M. Tracy, one of the men who jumped from a third story window and was taken to the hospital, died this afternoon.

Books containing the names of tenants were burned with the office, but from memory the following list was given: New York rubber belting and packing company, Willy Wallach, stationer; Munn & Co., Scientific American, S. M. Pettingill, advertising agents; New York Observer, Turf, Field and Farm, Scottish-American Journal, National Bank Note Reporter, Retailer, Evening Press, Tibbals & Son, school books; A. S. Clark, school books; S. Grubn, tailor; Charles Marks, tailor; Rodriguez & Ponds, cigars; Starkweather & Gibbs, architects; Wm. P. Brown, curiosities; A. J. Todd, lawyer; Frazer & Roberts, lawyers; A. B. Malcolm & Son, lawyers; S. J. Sigismond, physician; W. R. Winslow, lawyer; A. Wallenquist, patent attorney, and A. S. Hutchinson, mineral waters. Willy Wallach, president of the stationers' board of trade, has established himself temporarily in the Bennett building. His loss is estimated on revision at $70,000, well insured.

The police give the following estimate of losses: New York Belting and Packing Co., $100,000; Pettingill & Co., $5000; New York Observer, $10,000; Turf, Field and Farm, $6000; Scottish American Journal, $10,000; Willy Wallach, $50,000; Marks, tailor, $20,000; Rodriguez & Ponds, cigars, $2000; the building of Orlando Potter, $600,000; Eugene Kelly, building, $50,000; Nash & Crook, restaurant, $50,000; Times building, $50,000. The following men, who worked in the burnt building, had not appeared at their respective homes up to last evening, and their names were reported at police stations: Edward R. Harris, Jeremiah W. Dennison of Brooklyn, Joseph C. Anderson and Wm. Stubbs. At 11 last night engines were still playing on the ruins, which burned brightly despite the firemen's efforts. The sides of the building on Beekman and Nassau streets have been demolished completely, obstructing both streets. The front of the old Evening Mail building was scorched and blackened, and did not contain a sound pane of glass. The front of the Morse building was also badly damaged by falling walls. The Times building was saved by the fireproof structure of the walls, the one on the south next to the fire being four feet thick and twelve feet higher than that of the burned building. When it seemed impossible to save the Times from serious damage, offers of hospitality and aid in getting out the paper were sent from several neighboring establishments. The proprietors of the World desire it stated that the fire occurred in the building formerly occupied by the World, the building in which the paper is now located being uninjured.

Accident on the Union Pacific.

OMAHA, Jan. 31.—This morning a special U. P. train, consisting of an engine and pay car, ran into freight train No. 8, near Fort street, badly wrecking the caboose of the latter train. Conductor Hobart and brakeman Seely, who were in the freight caboose, were badly injured, and Seely died this afternoon. Conductor Hobart will recover. Paymaster Joselyn and his clerks were not injured. No damage done to the pay car.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.

Windom, from committee on foreign relations, reported a resolution requesting the president to transmit all correspondence between the United States and diplomatic agencies, accredited to the republics of Mexico and Guatemala since January 1, 1881, and any other information in his possession, relating to the foreign relations of the United States with each and both of said countries or their relations with each other; adopted.

At 1:25 the senate resumed consideration of the Sherman three per cent bill. After a discussion, in which Hawley and Ingalls were the principal participants, the senate rejected the Vest amendment—yeas 28, noes 29; and Plumb's amendment was agreed to—ayes 33, noes 22.

It is as follows: "That the secretary of the treasury shall use all funds now held in the treasury for redemption of United States notes in excess of $100,000,000, in redemption of bonds of the United States, such redemption to be made in less than three installments, and said sum of $100,000,000 left in the treasury shall not be increased or diminished except in redemption of United States notes."

After executive session, senate adjourned.

House.

Springer requested the president to obtain a list of American citizens in English prisons, and after an animated and meaningless discussion it was adopted.

The speaker stated the regular order to be the question of reference of a joint resolution introduced some weeks ago by Robeson, of New Jersey, to declare certain lands heretofore granted railroad companies forfeited, and restore the same to the public domain and open the same to settlers.

Robeson stated that since he had introduced the measure, several bills were introduced and referred to the committee on Pacific railroads. He had discovered that he had not included all railroads though such had been his intention. He therefore withdrew his resolution and introduced in lieu a resolution which applied to all railroads except the Pacific railroad, in relation to which bills had already been introduced. After some debate the resolution was referred to the committee on judiciary.

The house then went into committee of the whole, Browne, of Indiana, in the chair, on the public calendar.

A bill was called to establish a home for indigent soldiers and sailors. After considerable discussion it was committed without action.

A mail and post route bill was reported and passed and house adjourned.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.

Senate took up Morgan's pending resolution calling for an authentic statement of all tests made by mixed commission in reference to heavy ordnance being built by the United States, and also for printing testimony taken in the last congress on subject of heavy ordnance and projectiles, and tests to which they have been subjected. Discussion followed, in which Morgan explained that his purpose was to have published matters which the ordnance bureau had suppressed. He had been informed the bureau was in the hands of a ring interested in certain inventions, and its chief officer held patents upon inventions which the ring had caused to be patented. He wanted to have the whole matter sifted to the bottom, and an opportunity given American inventors to compete with the favorites of the bureau. The resolution was finally laid aside informally without action.

Senate took up the 3 per cent. bond bill, and Morgan advocated an additional section to the amendment, as follows:

That any agreement made with holders of bonds of the United States since adjournment of the forty-sixth congress by which the rate of interest on such bonds is reduced to 3½ per centum per annum, is hereby fully ratified and confirmed according to the terms and intent of said agreement.

After a long discussion upon the suggestion, Ingalls' amendment was modified by the insertion of an express recognition of the agreement as valid and binding upon the government.

The amendment was then adopted without vote, as also a provision offered by Davis, of West Virginia, declaring that nothing in the act shall be so construed as to authorize an increase of the public debt.

The bill was then reported to the senate from the committee of the whole, and the question being upon agreeing to the amendment as a whole, Sherman asked for a separate vote upon Plumb's amendment applying the surplus revenue over $100,000,000 to reduction of public debt. He said if the proposition was not stricken out he and others who had acted with him would be compelled to be against the bill. He urged upon the senate to appreciate the importance of maintaining a sufficient reserve in the treasury as heretofore, in order that sudden emergencies might be provided against, and argued if the proposed reduction was now made it would open the door to further attempts in the same direction. The next move he feared, would be to dispose of revenues in excess of $50,000,000. He had been informed even to-day that the flow of gold from our country had begun and he was apprehensive the balances in our favor heretofore might be turning against us. He added that on the previous evening he had felt like imitating the example of French ministers and resigning charge of the bill in favor of the senator from Kansas.

Plumb said the senator complained that somebody might some day reduce the redemption fund to $50,000,000. He (Plumb) knew one man, the secretary of treasury, might to-day reduce it to nothing and he wanted to restrict this one man's power. The senator might alarm the country by charging that a panic might occur if the surplus revenues were reduced, and he had spoken of the outflow of gold, and in this he was helping to bring on every evil he professed to fear. He (Plumb) believed now was the accepted time for applying usefully the revenue which has been lying uselessly in the treasury vaults.

Teller said the financial statements laid upon the desks of senators from official sources, disproved Sherman's assertion that gold exports had begun.

Bayard here took the floor, but yielded it for a motion for executive session.

House resolution fixing the 27th of February, as the day for Garfield memorial services was concurred in.

Morrill reported from the finance committee proposing amendments to the revised statutes to authorize collectors, naval officers, surveyors and inspectors, who may have cause to suspect concealment of merchandise in particular stores or dwellings, to search for and seize the same. After executive session senate adjourned.

House.

At the conclusion of Caswell's remarks a three hours' debate followed.

Springer referred to the appropriation of $7,250,000 for inland transportation by "star routes," and stated he would, at the proper time, offer to that clause the following amendment: Provided, that no part thereof shall be paid to any contractor or sub-contractor for any services or claim for services performed, which was not embraced in the original contract, and no service shall be expedited or increased beyond the original contract and no contract shall be enlarged, or modified, or released until after advertisement and subletting thereof in the same manner as the original contract advertised and let, but no new contract shall release any contractor from his liability or the liability of his sureties in the original contract.

Hooker, of Mississippi, gave notice that he would, at the proper time, offer an amendment limiting the power of the postmaster general to discontinuing mail service on steamboats.

Holman, of Indiana, gave notice of an amendment which he proposed to offer, and which provides that railroad companies whose railroads were constructed in whole or in part by land grants made by congress, on condition that mails should be transported over the roads at such rates as congress should direct, shall receive only 50 per cent. of the compensation paid to railroads which did not receive aid, for corresponding postal service.

Williams, of Wisconsin, advocated an increase in the appropriation for compensation of railway post-office clerks and route agents, and the increase of salaries of those persons.

General debate having closed, the committee, without further action, rose and the house soon adjourned.

LIFE INSURANCE PROFITS DEMONSTRATED BY ACTUAL SETTLEMENTS
MADE PRIOR TO 1882.
The Society is now paying maturing Tontine Policies with the following remarkable results:
POLICIES CARRIED TEN YEARS
WITH THE RETURN OF ALL
PREMIUMS PAID AND
INTEREST THEREON.
1st Example: Policy No. 49,563, issued May 25, 1863. Amount......$10,000 00
Total premiums paid (11 years)......5,504 00
The assured was entitled to draw, in cash, $6,455.80—having had besides $10,000 of assurance for eleven years. 116 per cent. of premiums paid, returnable in cash.
This example and those which follow show that
LARGER PROFITS ARE PAID
POLICY HOLDERS
THAN ARE NOW DECLARED BY ANY OTHER COMPANY.
2d Example: Policy No. 58,548, issued Dec. 30, 1870. Endowment 20 years. Tontine Period ten years. Amount......$10,000 00
Total premiums paid (10 years)......7,579 00
The assured on Dec. 30, 1880, was entitled to draw in cash, $9,023 30, 120 per cent of the premiums paid.
These results, although predicted by carefully made estimates, are
NOT ESTIMATES, BUT ACTUAL CASH RETURNS.
3d Example: Policy No. 41,621, issued March 27, 1860. Amount......$5,000 00
Total premiums paid......2,908 95
In this case the assured withdrew, March 27, 1880, in cash, $3,312 45, being 114 per cent. of premiums paid.
Many policies will be thus paid in 1882, showing
CASH RETURNS OF FROM 100 TO 120 PER CENT. OF THE PREMIUMS PAID.
Assets securely invested of $43,000,000. Surplus, nearly $10,000,000. The Society's popularity is shown by the fact that for the past eleven years the total amount of new policies issued has been greater than that of any other company in existence, thus making its average
ANNUAL NEW BUSINESS LARGER THAN THAT OF
ANY OTHER COMPANY.
The Society pays death claims promptly and in full. Its policies are clear and concise, and with no unreasonable conditions.

THURSDAY MORNING, FEB. 2, 1882.

AMERICAN BREADSTUFFS IN EUROPE.

Ten European countries must buy part of the grain they consume from the United States. Our cheap lands and improved methods of farming are fast driving all other countries from the world's grain markets. Russia sold 9,000,000 centals of wheat to Great Britain only three years ago; now she sells but a little over 2,500,000. Germany which furnished 5,000,000 centals in 1878, furnished her but 1,750,000 in 1880. London controls the grain market of Europe, but on the other hand, her own market is controlled by the wheat fields of America. Before 1860 the United States did not export on an average over 4,000,000 centals of wheat yearly. Between that date and 1865 the average amount was nearly 15,000,000. Then commenced an increase of grain export without parallel in the history of commerce. Our wheat exports reached in 1876, 29,500,000 centals; in 1877, 21,500,000 centals; in 1878, 38,500,000 centals; in 1879, 65,500,000 centals; in 1880, 82,000,000 centals. During three years, 1876 to 1880 our flour exports had increased from less than 7,000,000 centals to 10,500,000 centals and the corn we sold went from 24,500,000 to 49,000,000 centals. Bad harvests in America and remarkably good crops in Europe, checked our tremendous exports in 1881, but these conditions on both sides are unusual, and the decline is merely casual and temporary.

Our grain exports do not go exclusively to England as in former years. There the increase since 1860 in wheat alone has been 35,000,000 centals. Belgium bought comparatively none from us in that year, but in 1879 she took 7,200,000 centals. France commenced in 1860 with 2000 centals of American wheat. Nineteen years later she took 37,000,000 centals, and the increase in flour and corn is still more marked. With all this, there remain good reasons for supposing that we are only at the beginning of grain-exporting to continental states. Cheap transportation can easily make it possible for us to supply other continental states with the millions of grain they are now buying from abroad, for the increases of their purchases from us have not by any means reached the amount we can yet make them. If wheat bears the cost of transportation even from Australia, Egypt and Chili, to Europe, and statistics show that it does, there certainly can be no further question as to our furnishing the article at as low a price in any continental harbor.

The demand from Europe for American grain is increasing in full pace with our ability to supply it. Grain growing in competition with us is fast becoming unprofitable, and the markets now wholly supplied from the other side are looking toward America. An example of this is Switzerland, which imports about 7,000,000 centners of grain yearly, but to the present time almost wholly from Eastern European states, while 117,000,000 francs worth of wheat and corn are bought yearly by Italy, a small proportion only coming from the United States. So, too, is it with Sweden, Portugal, the Netherlands, and Greece, all large buyers of grain and of meat, but not yet buying extensively of the United States. Supposing that Europe continues to produce the same quantities of bread as now, there is still left the numerous markets referred to, to be supplied, and that with amounts which, in their totals, would double the exports we now have. There is no likelihood, however, of production continuing so largely in Europe when it is becoming unprofitable. Cheap labor is counterbalanced by dear land, and the question of American supply has become almost wholly a question of freights. If with but $2,000,000 acres of land in wheat we can now support 50,000,000 of our own people, and send about 100,000,000 of spare bushels abroad, what will we have for export when all territories of American wheat-land shall stand in golden grain?

Our corn-fields have produced surplus crops for Europe that are scarcely less astounding than the shipments of wheat. From 3,000,000 bushels sent abroad in 1860, the exports had risen to more than 85,000,000 bushels in 1879; and this is supplemented by something like 11,000,000 bushels of rye, barley, and oats furnished to Europe in that year.

A CONFLICT OF LAWS.

The annual revenue to the government received from distilled and fermented liquors for the last fiscal year is stated to have amounted to $60,000,000. This greatly exceeds the total amount of revenue from customs collected any year before the war. When President Jackson retired from office the entire public debt was only about $337,000. The dependence of the government on this particular source of revenue needs no further elucidation. This fact is one which seems to be strangely overlooked by local reformers of the prohibition type. While congress encourages the importation and sale of liquors, the state legislatures are invoked to annihilate the traffic, and the effort is now quite general to obtain amendments of the local constitutions to entirely suppress dealing in articles which furnish a large proportion of the means for keeping the wheels of the general government in motion. Here is a conflict which must be solved before the supposed golden age will arrive, when the sale of strong drinks will be substantially closed up. Nor is it an entirely new one. In the first congress the "rum question" was one of the first and most prominent to receive attention. The evils of intemperance were felt then as now. They were publicly confessed, nor is the idea of annihilation of the use of intoxicants one for which modern reformers can set up the claim of novelty. But our early legislators were practical men, and recognized the doctrine that the true way of preventing sales is to do away with the demand for the article. For instance, Elbridge Gerry, in 1789, spoke to the national house of representatives, thus:

"It has frequently been observed that rum is injurious to the morals of the people. If I could have my wish, it should not be to diminish, but to annihilate the use of it, both foreign and domestic, in the United States; but to encourage the importation from the West Indies, and destroy our own distilleries, can never be good policy." The measure which he resisted was the imposition of a duty of six cents per gallon on molasses, and he added, "that will destroy the capitals of the distillers and ruin the men. But why do this? To prevent the use of rum? Yet, gentlemen, consider the consumption of spirits as their great source of revenue." George Thacher, the first congressman from Maine, took the same view, argued for sustaining our own distilleries and looking out for our fishermen. These observations are pertinent to our times as to those when congress was first called on to deal with the subject. To encourage huge importations of an article for purposes of raising revenue, and then forbid the sale and use of it, is absurd on its face.

The prohibitionists at Washington appear to be moving for a commission to enquire into the subject of the liquor traffic. Pray, what is the use of such a commission? As respects importations, the facts are open to everybody. As relates to sales in the states, the subject is beyond the jurisdiction of congress. If the object is to inaugurate prohibition, it already has a field, and an experimental one too, by passing a law that shall reach congressmen and all others in the district of Columbia. That would be beginning at Jerusalem.

FORTUNES FOR THE FEW.

It is said that Oregon derives great benefit from the protective tariff on wool. But it is an indisputable fact that wool brings better prices in London than here. Consequently no "protection" is needed to keep foreign wools out of Oregon. Not long since this statement, in substance, was presented in these columns. But the San Francisco Chronicle, arguing for a protective tariff on the ground that it makes high prices, attempts to meet the statement by remarking that "during the manufacturing boom of 1880 the enormous quantity of 128,131,747 pounds of raw wool was imported into the United States, and that the shipments came from all points of the compass." The Chronicle ought to have added that this wool came into our eastern ports. No part of it was brought here to compete with our wool, for the very good reason that better prices can be had in any quarter of the globe than here. Hence it is that "protection" does not protect Oregon wool-growers. But as we can manufacture little or nothing here, it does enable eastern manufacturers to make high prices for the goods we consume; and our farmers lose more through this system than they could possibly gain by any unscalled protective policy. It is a most singular idea that wealth, for the masses, can be gained by obstructing trade or the exchange of commodities which the interests of the people would prompt them to engage in, and which it is confessedly the object of a protective tariff to hinder or prevent. Such obstructions of trade can be used, and are used, to make great wealth for individuals and monopolies; but it is accomplished at the expense of the great body of the people. Great fortunes are, indeed, the result of the protective system, but all the protection received by the few who accumulate these great fortunes must be paid for by the masses; and hence the great policy of "protection," though so much lauded, is only a contrivance to enrich a few at the cost of the many. A limited class have conceived and put into practice the doctrine that it is a good scheme for them to make the great body of the people pay high prices for commodities which the comparatively small class have to sell; and the government is called in to rob the many for the benefit of the few. This is "protection," and all there is of it. On no subject is there so much effort to mystify and befog the people. Perhaps the reason is that it pays to do so. It must be owned too that the beneficiaries of the system are highly successful in the practice of their duperies on the people at large.

DO WE WANT IT?

The question for the people of the Northwest in regard to the Northern Pacific land grant is simply this: Do they want the Northern Pacific railroad completed, or do they not? If they want it they will realize the danger of crippling or destroying it by proceedings in congress, inspired by the Union and Central Pacific monopoly, to make its land grant, which is largely the basis of its credit, useless. If they do not want it of course they will approve the attack of the rival roads on the resources relied upon to build it. If our people want to be shut in here always, with no industrial or commercial development of their country, and pay tribute in perpetuity to corporations controlled in the interest of other sections, then by all means they should second and encourage the effort to cripple or destroy the Northern Pacific. Will it be said that even if the Northern Pacific fails we shall soon have connection with the east by other lines? 'Tis a false hope. These other lines have been moved to make demonstrations in this direction only by the activity of the Northern Pacific. It is opposition and rivalry, which will end just so soon as the progress of the Northern Pacific is arrested. The Union and Central monopoly hold our traffic and will always hold it, until the Northern Pacific is completed, even without building to Oregon. Therefore the so-called Oregon short-line will stop just so soon as the Northern Pacific can be checked. Under these circumstances it is for the people of the northwest to say whether they want railroad connection with the east, or not. If they do they will support the Northern Pacific. If they do not, they will approve and encourage the efforts inspired by the selfish monopolists of California and New York, and by the enemies of the northwest, to hold our section in perpetual vassalage, prevent any independent development here and force the trade of this country for a further indefinite period, to take as heretofore and now, the circuitous and expensive route by sea and rail through San Francisco and over the Union and Central monopoly lines. If this prospect is a pleasing one to alleged newspapers of the northwest which clamor incessantly for hostile measures against the Northern Pacific, then their conduct is perfectly intelligible. If this is not what they want, the motive can only be a stupid or sinister one.

There is an opinion among physicians that many foul and dangerous disorders are changing their type and becoming not only less fatal, but more amenable to treatment. Herbert Spencer, oddly enough alludes to this fact to emphasize his doctrine of evolution. Who knows? Perhaps disorders may, by science, be changed into delights, just as weeds have been converted by man into food in the form of wheat and rye, and a poisonous variety of nightshade into the crisp and toothsome celery.

In Europe there is one soldier to every 110 of population. In the United States we have one soldier to every 2000 people. The area of the United States is almost double that of Europe, but we have only 17 inhabitants to the square mile, against 145 in Europe. In such facts as those will be found the reason why 700,000 men and women found their way across the Atlantic to our shores in 1881.

More than four weeks have been spent in a fruitless attempt to organize the legislature of New York, and the democratic factions appear to be as far from an understanding as ever. The vote for speaker in the house runs 47 for the republican candidate, 46 for the regular democratic and 7 for the Tammany's man. There is no contest in the senate, as the lieutenant governor presides.

The proper way for Scoville to raise money would be to accept the offer of the showman who wants to exhibit the body of Guiteau, after his execution, all over the world, and give the family half the profits. The world will pay more money to see Guiteau's body, after it has hanged forty minutes, than to hire lawyers to save him from hanging.

The district of Tarapaca, Peru, which Chili contemplates appropriating, is estimated to be worth $1,000,000,000. As the entire cost of the war to Chili has been but $30,000,000, it will undoubtedly prove a profitable speculation to that country.

The following from the Atlanta Constitution is an ingenious pun, and may be something more: "The star route thieves were in quite a stew in regard to escaping the law; but President Arthur showed them Howe. We trust the remark will not place us in the light of trespassers upon the domain of the western humorists."

The salmon catch of 1881 in British Columbia was nearly three times greater than that of the year before, and increased in value $741,000 over the same period. During the year 2993 men caught and packed 177,000 cases of 48 pounds each.

In spite of the remonstrances of the United States and England, prosecution of Hebrews in Russia continues. Reports of intolerant proceedings read like some of the black pages of English history two centuries ago.

One can fancy the fun the Harvard students had at Oscar Wilde's lecture last night, and sigh to be a boy again. A finer piece of burlesque has not recently been reported.

CITY.

SUKSDORF'S LECTURE.—It is seldom that a Portland audience has listened to as weighty and suggestive a presentation of social questions as that of yesterday evening by Mr. Suksdorf, upon the labor question. Basing his thought upon the conception of universal law, and the organic life of man, he traced the successive stages of individual transition and uniformity, and most graphically depicted the dualism, or conflict in man between his life as an individual and his life as one of society. The great destructive and constructive results of individualism, when introduced upon the stage of previous uniformity and social petrifaction, were illustrated by the German reformation, which was more than a church affair—an emancipation from arbitrary authority, moral, mental or civil; but on the other hand individualism tends to selfishness and egotism, the lateral pressure of striving masses, crushing the weak and lifting the fortunate on high, and the prizes of power and wealth fall to the few, an era of centralization comes, with the inevitable ills and fevers which follow the disturbed condition of the body politic. The lecturer seemed inclined to take a gloomy view of social phenomena, and predicted revolution and social anarchy for all Europe and America, as the result of causes at work. We have seldom listened to a more striking description of the antagonism between the favored state and the unfortunate classes, and the ferocity of felt wrongs, over against the carelessness and pitched insolence of the favored, was described with the eye and voice of a seer. The deeply underlying wrong of selfishness and brute force, dooms us to an irrepressible conflict. If religion did its work this conflict might be averted but what it does is feeble and mechanical, besides what the exigencies of society demand. We deem such a confutation as Mr. Suksdorf made, a good tonic for careless progressionists, who do not see how the same law governs wheat and tares, and that society degrades by the same law that it gains ground. The whole lecture should be printed to do justice to theme and lecturer, and amply repaid the audience, who loudly applauded at the close. The next lecture of the course is on Feb. 3, by Prof. Condon of the State University.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. A. J. Marshall, deputy clerk, was presented in open court with a stem-winding gold watch and chain by Judge Stott and the members of the bar of this city. Mr. J. N. Dolph made a few appropriate remarks in behalf of the bar upon presenting the gift, complimenting Mr. Marshall on the efficient manner in which he had always performed his duties, and assuring him that he was held in high esteem by the judge and members of the bar. Mr. Marshall responded in a short and neat address, thanking the donors for the magnificent present, and for the kindness and forbearance with which he was treated by them during the seven years he was in charge of the court records. The watch bears Mr. Marshall's monogram, neatly engraved, and the following inscription: "Presented to A. J. Marshall by Hon. R. Stott, judge of the fourth judicial district of Oregon, and the attorneys of the Portland bar, Feb. 1, 1882." After the speeches a motion was made that a minute of the proceedings be placed upon the court record, and it was so ordered.

DROWNED.—About dusk Tuesday evening William Ross was drowned in the Sandy river. He was out hunting with his brother-in-law, and they killed a deer on the opposite side of the river. They attempted to cross the stream in a frail skiff without oars. The boat was leaky and they had nothing but a stick with to guide it across. The older man got out into the stream with a view to pulling the boat across. He turned around to see the skiff, but the swift current carried it over some rapids. The last sound heard from young Ross was a cry for help as the boat containing him was carried with frightful velocity over the falls, and was dashed to pieces on the rocks below. Ross was about twenty years old, and the son of a farmer. The body has not been recovered, although a number of friends and relatives were engaged in searching for the remains.

CHANGES OF TEACHERS.—The following changes have taken place in the teachers' corps of the public schools: Miss Hattie Collier of the third grade, Central school, has resigned, and Miss Ida Lemon has been elected to the position; Miss Lutie Van Cleve, of the seventh grade Central, has resigned, and Miss Robinson has been transferred to the ... Miss Todd has been transferred from the Harrison street school to the eighth grade, Central school; Mrs. Ames has been transferred from the North school to the charge of High school pupils; Miss Mollie Barlow has been elected to the ... class, Central school; Miss Anna G. ... grade, Harrison street, and Miss ... the sixth grade, B class, of the same; ... will be continued in the place vacated ... .

DEFACING BUILDINGS.—Henry Meyer, who for some time has occupied a room in Burchardt's building on the southwest corner of Second and Washington streets as a saloon, in moving yesterday tore out part of the room which supported the upper floor, where a Chinaman and his family fell. Meyer was arrested and arraigned in Justice court on a charge of defacing a building not his own. The case was taken under advisement by the justice, who will render a verdict to-day.

SWAN ISLAND.—The government dredge has been at work on Swan island bar since Saturday and is making satisfactory progress. It was not deemed advisable to go to the expense of sounding, hence the amount of silt to be moved is not known. The cut is estimated to be about 1600 feet long. At St. Helens the channel is a trifle over seventeen feet at low water.

CONFISCATED.—About three months ago the United States officers at Sitka seized several packages of liquor which white men and Indians were attempting to smuggle into the territory, and sent the stuff here. Yesterday the matter came up in the U. S. district court, when Judge Deady ordered the liquor destroyed.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, the steamer Vancouver proceeding up the river ran against the east pier of the Willamette bridge and knocked a hole in her bottom. After discharging her freight she was beached on the East Portland side. The damage is slight.

NEW HALL.—The Orchestra Union has leased the upper story of Hardenburg & Mann's new block on First street, near Fourth. The room is 47 feet wide and 100 feet long, and will be used both for rehearsals and public performances.

NOTICE.—Members of the Y. M. H. A. who have received notices for a special meeting to be held ... are hereby informed that neither the secretary nor president have authorized the issue of these notices.

SOCIAL.—George Wright Post will give their next social dance, according to programme, at Turn Verein hall to-morrow (Friday) evening. Holders of tickets should be on hand early in the evening.

ROLL OF HONOR.—To the roll of honor, recently published, the names of Fannie Dickinson, William Breeding and Charles Strans, of the high school, should have been added.

DEDICATION.—The new M. E. church at Mt. Tabor will be dedicated on Sunday, Feb. 12th. President Hoyt, of Willamette university, will pronounce the dedicatory address.

HEAVY SENTENCE.—George Friends, who was indicted, tried and found guilty of larceny, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Stott to five years in the penitentiary.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

James Williams, proprietor Portland fish market, has fresh and salt fish of all kinds.

No stages have crossed Snake river at Olds' ferry on account of ice. Mails and passengers are transferred in a small boat.

Alice Oates says she would have had no trouble with her husband if he had obeyed her orders. That's the way with lots of women, Alice. Men are so unreasonable.

With a large experience here and elsewhere, Smith & Hansen, of the St. Charles restaurant, can and certainly do set for their patrons the best meals obtainable in the city. Indulge in a meal.

D. W. Prentice & Co., leading music dealers, the only house in Portland that deal in musical merchandise exclusively. Largest stock of pianos, organs, sheet music and everything that pertains to the music business. Send your orders direct to us.

ONE OF THE INSTITUTIONS now is the German Bakery, which was recently removed to more commodious quarters, 145 Third street. Their cakes, pies and bread are unequalled. Leave orders.

MUSIC.—Wiley B. Allen, 153 Third St. Orders filled. Send stamp for catalogue and Musical Journal.

Fine oil paintings, engravings, chromos. Ornamental frames made and regilding done. Valney's, 153 Third St.

Have your clothes cleaned and dyed at the American steam dyeing and cleaning works, 10 Salmon St.

The DAILY OREGONIAN is for sale at Gill's.

THE BLOCKADE RAISED.

Yesterday the Harvest Queen forced her way from The Dalles to the Cascades with a few passengers and nearly all accumulated mail. The ice at Klickitat was much harder than the night before, and the boat had great difficulty to force her way through. A strong Chinook set in about 2 P. M. and prospects are good for a general break up to-day.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

Diabolical Deeds.

STERLING, Ill., Jan. 31.—The village of Rock Falls is in somewhat of an uproar because of a man and woman named Seymour having beaten, starved and otherwise brutally used a seven year old daughter of Mrs. Bolls, whose husband is in an insane asylum. The little girl was working for the Seymours, but has now been taken away and is under physician's care. Twenty or thirty people last night visited Seymour for the purpose of lynching him, but he escaped with his wife, and diligent search failed to discover them. The methods employed upon the innocent child are too diabolical for mention.

Stolen Goods Recovered.

JACKSON, Mich., Jan. 31.—The $12,000 worth of silks stolen from Camp, Morrill & Camp, at Jackson, last Wednesday night, have been found lodged in the office of J. M. Welch, a lawyer, situated a few feet from where they were taken. A fellow named Thomas, who had an office with Welch, sold three pieces of silk last Saturday at Albion, which were identified. This set the officers at work, and they captured the goods. Thomas has fled, and Welch is in jail.

A Brutal Murder.

WINONA, Minn., Jan. 31.—Robert and John Carroll brutally murdered with pitchforks Titus Hoyt, a respected farmer with whom their father was in dispute. The Carrolls, who are a hard set, have been arrested.

Bound to Kill Somebody.

DISCO, Ill., Jan. 31.—Sunday night Mrs. D. W. Miller, becoming involved in a difficulty with her husband, seized an axe and attempted to kill him. Failing in this she retired to another room, saturated her clothing with kerosene and set fire to her dress. She was burned to death.

Fate of a Fiend.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Jan. 31.—Wm. Steele, a tramp on Saturday night stopped at a farm house and asked for supper. Finding a woman, Mrs. Buel, alone, he outraged her and fled. Neighbors caught the fiend, hung him, and then piled brush about the body, and setting fire to it burned it past recognition.

A Family Row.

DANVILLE, Va., Feb. 1.—A desperate fight occurred yesterday on the Laurer plantation, between the King and Slate families. Shotguns and pistols were used freely. Tom King was stabbed eight times, old Mrs. King was mortally stabbed and Mrs. Slate badly wounded.

A Fearful Crime.

KINGSTREE, S. C., Feb. 1.—Anderson Singleton and Lucinda Tisdale yesterday brutally murdered Phoebe Tisdale, sister of Lucinda. After Singleton had crushed in her skull with an ax, Lucinda plunged a knife through her sister's heart. They then threw the body into a deep gulch. Jealousy was the cause. Both were arrested.

Found Dead.

LANCASTER, S. C., Feb. 1.—The body of Thomas Haskins, a prominent young man of this place, was found in a gold pit here to-day with his throat cut and pockets rifled. No clue to the murderers.

SEATTLE NOTES.

SEATTLE, Jan. 31.

The coal shipments from this point during January, aggregated 19,137 tons, and were in excess of shipments of any previous month in the history of the port.

The republican primaries to-day were almost a fizzle. In the first ward 11 votes were cast though 8 persons were elected delegates, and the polls were open 6 hours. In the second ward 20 delegates were elected on a vote of 18, and in the third ward 56 votes were cast and 22 delegates elected. In all 81 votes were cast at the primaries out of a republican vote in the city of fully 850. In the country less interest was manifested. The people generally did not approve the calling of a delegate convention merely to fill a month's vacancy in the single office of the sheriffalty, and intentionally staid away from the primaries. Three candidates are in the field, all republicans, namely, Gardner Kellogg, John H. McGraw and J. F. Jordon. Kellogg will probably receive the nomination and the other two will not be candidates before the convention, but will run independently. The democrats here are in a hopeless minority and will neither nominate a candidate of their own nor indorse a republican.

Real estate here is selling as never before, and at figures at least a hundred per cent. higher than those of one year ago, and in some cases two hundred per cent. higher. During January two hundred investments were recorded, the average consideration being $1000. One hundred and forty was the highest number ever before recorded in a single month.

The American Seaman's Friend Society have determined to establish a mission on the Sound, and have appointed Dr. N. W. Lane chaplain for the year beginning April 1st. The bethel will probably be located in Seattle.

MRS. PARTINGTON SAYS

Don't take any of the quack rostrums, as they are regimental to the human cistern; but put your trust in Hop Bitters, which will cure general dilapidation, costive habits and all comic diseases. They saved Isaac from a severe extract of tripod fever. They are the ne plus unum. —Boston Globe.

HAIR CUTTING.

Three of the finest workmen in the state are at Ferguson's hair cutting headquarters, 30 Stark street.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Denis Kearney on Deck.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Last evening Denis Kearney, at Pixley's hall, organized the first branch workingmen's club of the 11th ward. Sixty members signed the roll and the following were elected officers: Wm. Wright, president; Isaac Fish, secretary, and P. Ryder, treasurer. Kearney addressed the club at length and urged those present to organize and agitate the Chinese question so that congress may be forced into passing a bill to give the people of the Pacific coast some relief and check the tide of Chinese immigration. He announced that he would hold a meeting to-night at Curry's hall.

Shipping Statistics.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—An abstract of the shipping statistics for this customs district for 1881 has just been completed. It shows that there were in service at the close of the year 865 vessels in all, 702 of which are sailing vessels and 163 steamers, 552 engaged in the coasting trade and 313 in foreign. The increase in vessels over the number in service at the close of 1880 is 13, and increase in tonnage 4150. Thirty-three vessels have been built during the past year, having a total capacity of 6935 tons; 24 vessels, with a capacity of 4511 tons, were lost at sea and wrecked, and ten, with a capacity of 4488 tons, were abandoned as unfit for use. The number of vessels lost at sea, wrecked and abandoned as unfit during 1881, was fifteen less than the previous year. Three vessels only were sold to foreigners during the year, five less than the previous year.

Criminal Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The suit of Mrs. Jane R. Forbes vs. Wm. P. Ridgway, for recovery of $10,000 damages for alleged breach of promise was called for trial to-day in department No. 1 of the superior court. Defendant asked for two weeks' continuance of the case, but the motion was denied. Defence was mainly based on the claim that plaintiff was not legally divorced, and therefore a married woman. The trial will probably last several days.

This evening the jury in the case of state vs. Sullivan, tried for shooting and killing a Chinaman some weeks ago, brought in a verdict of manslaughter.

The Lawlor Investigation.

At a regular meeting of the board of trade last night the investigation of the charges preferred against Dr. Lawlor were continued. The doctor was summoned before the board and required to testify under oath to the number of persons he had vaccinated. After hearing additional testimony in the case the board adjourned.

An Interesting Meeting.

The Geographical Society held a very interesting and profitable meeting last evening. The subjects were the effects of counter-electrical currents, Wrangel Land, and the inter-oceanic canal.

Suicide.

The body of an unknown man was found at Golden Gate park, near the entrance, this morning, a pistol grasped in his right hand and a bullet through his head. He was middle aged and of respectable appearance.

A Startling Rumor.

There is a rumor about town, which carries with it many evidences of authenticity, to the effect that Blanche Douglas, a woman implicated with the Malley boys in the Jennie Cramer case at New Haven, is the widow of a prominent United States official who died suddenly in this city several years ago.

Californians in a Hurry.

In the Senate to-day Miller presented a petition from the immigration association of San Francisco, urging the early passage of an act to carry into effect the Chinese immigration treaty.

NEVADA.

Fatal Accident.

CARSON, Jan. 31.—An accident to the regular passenger train from San Francisco on the Virginia and Truckee railroad, occurred this morning at Winter's crossing. The snow having drifted a considerable depth, the plow struck a plank in the crossing and the locomotive and express car left the track. The mail, two passenger cars and the sleeper kept on. The engineer, fireman and Wells, Fargo & Co's messenger were slightly injured. Three Indians riding on the tender were killed.

A Fatal Ending.

EUREKA, Nev., Jan. 31.—Terry McMahon and John Potter quarreled in a saloon here to-day, and agreed to go into the back yard and fight it out. The latter was getting the worst of the fisticuff, when he took out a huge pocket knife and stabbed and hacked McMahon terribly. The wounded man will probably die. Potter is in jail.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria Notes.

VICTORIA, Feb. 1.—The customs collections at the port of Victoria for January were $20,000, an increase of $5000 over those of January last year.

The bark Germania from San Francisco to load at Departure Bay, arrived yesterday.

Another American Co. has a notice in the newspapers to-day of intention to apply to the provincial legislature for the charter of a railway from Victoria to Seymour, and a grant of the coal lands in aid thereof.

A PRETENDER EXPOSED.

FORT WALLA WALLA, W. T. Jan. 31, 1882.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

There appeared in your paper a few days ago the following article:

"J. W. F. Cooper, who was arrested here by Policeman King for desertion from Fort Klamath, was sent to his company yesterday. He was a cadet at the West Point military academy, in the same class with Whittaker when the latter had his ears cut off, and in consequence of being thought implicated in the affair, was with several others expelled. His father is superintendent of public instruction at Evansville, Ind.

I was at the academy during the whole time that Mr. Whittaker was a cadet there. There was no cadet in the corps during that time by the name of Cooper, either in Mr. Whittaker's or any other class. Moreover, there were no cadets expelled from the academy for the above mentioned reason.

Very respectfully, W. S. SCOTT,
Second Lieut., First Cavalry.

YAQUINA BAY NOTES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

NEWPORT, Jan. 28.

The steamer Yaquina, also the steam schooner Kate and Ann, are expected here about the 5th of February.

The weather for the last few days has been cold and clear. Last night we had a sprinkle of snow with strong east wind.

Mr. George Lakin is convalescing fast. He is out and in fine spirits. He says he has had enough of Newport rum. [This is the young man reported to have taken his own life.]

The comic actor, Thos Lynch, and some amateurs, have organized a literary society and will give an entertainment for the benefit of charity, in Brassfield's Hall, February 22. The play "Among the Breakers," will be rendered in the best style, after which will be a ball for those who desire to indulge. It is expected to be the event of the season.

[illegible]

Lizzie Miller

COLONEL HOLDEN'S WILL.

"You are really in earnest, Miss Barbara," said Hugh Greatorex, with marked surprise in his tone.

"I am."

Never answer prompter, more decided; notwithstanding, Hugh Greatorex stared above his papers with an incredulous, bewildered air.

"I am to understand, then, that you disdain young Bonnifield's offer; that you will not avail yourself of any part of your rightful property; that you sacrifice all."

A flash of her black eyes, an impatient foot-tap interrupted him.

"Ah," she said.

But the brisk little lawyer was not to be thus foiled.

"My dear Miss Barbara," he continued, suavely, "this is a delicate matter, very delicate matter indeed, but I beg you to reflect, if not on this proper offer, at least upon the—the prima y condition of the will. You understand your grandfather, of course; he presumed you would not find this hard, and as far as Hubert—"

The black eyes flashed more vividly; again the crisp voice spoke.

"Mr Greatorex, spare your pains. I will not marry Hubert Bonnifield; I will not take from him these estates. For both, this is my first will and testament, so please let the subject drop."

She finished with her hand on the door knob and swept from the apartment down the hall and into the charming little boudoir which, until this evening, had seemed to her a paradise, into which, heretofore, she had brought scarce a disturbing thought. Her face softened; a burst of tears would have been the speedy sequel to her indignation, but for an object that met her eyes.

A fair object to look upon; a twist of twin roses gracing the bracket whither, a few hours since, they had been tenderly carried, where this same Barbara had bent over them with blushing countenance, and touched them with her lips. Poor flowers! now, beholding them, her brows bent pitilessly; she seized them and flung them far out on the lawn. The action was a relief; with it resentment temporarily faded, and she seemed lost in self amaze.

"Who would have believed I would do that this morning!" she murmured. "But truly since morning life has changed. Then I was near to loving Herbert Bonnifield, now I think I am as near hating him as ever I'd like to be. And he—"

She did not finish; she stood staring wistfully down the roadway, as if seeking the sequel there—down where the flowers had fallen, where they lay waiting revengeful agents, though Barbara dreamed it not.

It was a surprising denouement that which had occurred this day. Old Colonel Holden had been three months dead, the search for his will, vain, though vigilant, was about being abandoned and an administrator appointed, when, accidentally, the hunted document came to light. And a startling document it proved, conferring the colonel's rich estates, untrammeled, upon his granddaughter on condition that she married Mr Hubert Bonnifield, which, failing to do, the same were to pass untrammeled into the said Bonnifield's possession. Either of which conditions, Hugh Greatorex, executor, was charged to see speedily fulfilled.

On the face, a most arbitrary will, but to those acquainted with Colonel Holden the matter was very plain. He had been through life an inveterate jester, his humor must needs tinge his will. Noting with a favorable eye young Bonnifield's attentions to Barbara—as yet in their first bud—and priding himself on his sagacity, he had in a fit of jollity revoked all former testaments and indited this; chuckling to think that, should he die ere things were settled, how delightfully, under these arbitrary conditions, he had arranged for his "dear young folks." And he had died, suddenly, leaving this surprise.

Barbara understood it; unfortunately Hubert Bonnifield demurred. His delicacy was to be his first stumbling block. There was no joy in his countenance when he heard the startling news; he appeared to fathom but one point.

"It seems very ridiculous, Mr. Greatorex," he said, "that I should offer to forego all claim to Miss Barbara Holden's estates, but this is in my view, the proper course. Please manage it as informally as possible, else we may make a matter of importance out of a farce."

Hugh Greatorex was not surprised.

"A fine young fellow, Mr. Hubert Bonnifield," he mused, privately; "but Holden did not know him as well as I. The case stands thus. He can have pretty Miss Barbara to-morrow for the asking; but ask her he never will, without some advance on her part—something to satisfy his nice soul. Undoubtedly she will miscomprehend him, and so the chances are that we shall see a genuine love match nipped in the bud. But perhaps after settlement, in time—stranger things have chanced."

And Hugh Greatorex bustled off to Barbara with the news.

Not an over-pleasant mission for the little lawyer, who knew the case so well. For as Hubert Bonnifield had ignored the will's first condition he must necessarily do the same. He must smother suggestions, at least till the open point was ruled. But he was ill prepared for the decision that was to rule this out.

To Barbara, under the most delicate statings, Hubert Bonnifield's action would have caused offense, in its bare, legal representation it grew a mighty thing. Believing that he loved her, she had anticipated but one course, all the day she had been awaiting him, wondering that he did not come.

From her light nature the delicacy of his motives was hid; bewildered, indignant, beset by varied emotions, she took refuge in the defiance which so amazed Hugh Greatorex, and which culminated as we have seen.

But, as we have seen, resentment faded, wistfully down the roadway Barbara stood gazing where the flowers had fallen, where they lay waiting, revengeful agents though she dreaded it not.

Little thought Barbara whose hand would find his roses, fateful would their feelings be. Through the twilight, into night, she sat waiting, turning away at least but with the hopeful murmur:

"He will surely come to-morrow—surely as to-morrow comes."

* * * * * * *

To-morrow, but not Hubert Bonnifield, a week of to-morrows and still he did not come. A week, and then on the passenger list of a European steamer she read his name.

It had been all a mistake, he had never loved her; he was only too glad to yield up the estates that he might be freed from her. So reasoned Barbara as she read. Not strange, perhaps, since she lacked the hint that Hugh Greatorex should have given her; ignored her hasty words; suspected not the flowers that lay in wait that night.

Amid her pain the realization of her late caprice flashed upon her. Odd that it should be a comfort, but so it proved to Barbara, and she clung to it persistently, over and over she repeated:

"I will never take the estates. Hubert Bonnifield shall take them, for the will will be forever void."

In vain Hugh Greatorex pleaded; Barbara was firm. The homestead was vacated, and with an old faithful servant she went to reside a few miles from thence.

A year passed, and still the late comfortable homestead stood empty, and the stately shade and broad lands Barbara persisted Hugh Bonnifield as one dead. Till one evening Hugh Greatorex appeared in her cottage with a letter in his hand.

"Read," he said excitedly, pointing to its concluding clause.

She read as follows:

"I expect soon to be in W— with my wife. And in conclusion, if Miss Barbara has not thus assumed her inheritance, if she still de [illegible] consent [illegible]

"Am I not to [illegible] to him."

"I understand, Mr. Greatorex," she quietly. Strictly [illegible]

"My dear Miss Barbara," [illegible]

[illegible]

Some [illegible]

[illegible]

"I have been very ill," she stammered, and [illegible] are still weak.

He did not [illegible] he gazed steadily down into her still face. She [illegible] clasped it [illegible]

"Darling, [illegible] will forgive me when I say that I [illegible] that you have been very ill. [illegible] there is. I might have remained [illegible] part of what makes my joy to-night. If this [illegible] I was no more taken when I thought you loved me that when you dismissed my poor flowers it was not as I believe [illegible] you mistook my motive and [illegible] course. I acted on my first impulse. It seemed to me the [illegible] and I hoped that [illegible] understand. But you did not; you indignantly decreed that you would not marry me. Still I was incredulous, and was hastening to you, determined to read your heart when suddenly I found my flowers. I heard some children telling their story; my pride was now touched, and [illegible] and you know the rest. Barbara, I was foolish and went away."

He had spoken tenderly, with a wealth of quiet love, but his next words were passionate, spoken with his face bent close to hers.

"Barbara darling, fate has been very kind. You were delirious and revealed all; all was heard by that faithful servant whose letter brought me home. Will you deny it, Barbara? Will you deny that you love me still?"

She could not answer. His kisses sealed her lips. But though so sudden, so barely comprehended, there seemed no greater happiness on earth than hers, till there came a remembrance, and she exclaimed:

"Your letter to Mr Greatorex—your wife, Hubert? I do not understand."

"I have not my wife yet, Barbara," he replied roguishly, "but she will be with me very soon."

And so it proved. Two weeks later Hugh Greatorex sat staring over a wedding card which read: "Mr and Mrs Hubert Bonnifield—Barbara Holden."

Silver bullion, English standard .925 fine, per fine ounce 52.

U S Bonds—4½s 105¾.

WEDNESDAY, Feb 1.

The wheat market continues inactive at $1 6[illegible] per cental. The European market opened weak early in the day, but was reported firmer at the close.

The British ship Ellerslie (iron) was chartered to-day to load wheat for Liverpool; terms 72s 6d.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Jan 31.—The heaviest snowstorm of the season put a stop to any movement at the wharves of California vessels to-day, and as a consequence the market was very dull at last quotations. Tonnage is still scarce and all available vessels are readily taken by our agents. The latest charters are the Stephen and Dan Stone. Both load at this port, the former for San Francisco and the latter for Portland.

Markets are generally quiet, but prices for the most part are steady and firm.

Wheat—Higher under more favorable advices, but exporters were unable to do anything.

Barley—Fairly active and firm, No 1 Canada to arrive is worth $1 15.

Provisions—Dull and nominal.

Rio Coffee—Moderately active at a decline of ⅛c.

Refined Sugars—Selling fairly at a shade lower.

Foreign Fruits—Firm. Valencia raisins sell at 10c. Turkish prunes have been active, and sales made of 1600 casks on spot and to arrive at 6¼c.

Hops—Quiet.

Hides—In moderate demand and firm, with sales of 1714 California at 2[illegible]c on 60 days.

Turpentine—Dull.

Petroleum—Quiet and steady.

Crude Sperm and Whale Oils—Active and higher; at New Bedford sales of 2000 barrels sperm for export were made at 97½c@$1, and on a parcel of [illegible]00 barrels $1 02½; closed steady at $1 05; 800 barrels of northern whale at private terms.

New York Freight Situation.

NEW YORK, Feb 1.—The storm of yesterday has for the time being rendered the freight market very quiet, as the streets are in such a condition that freight cannot be transported. However there has been some inquiry from shippers, and with the advent of pleasant weather further activity may be looked for, although the season for shipments via Cape Horn is well advanced. The tonnage movement for the past month amounted to four vessels, registering 6010 tons, against six vessels of 8735 tons in the corresponding month last year, four vessels of 6241 tons in the previous year and five vessels of 7351 tons in 1879. The tonnage on berth and committed to this trade is larger than for a long time, and is thus full owing to the prospective scarcity of vessels and demand for them by both our lines for transportation of railroad iron, of which there is considerable to go forward on account of all Pacific roads. The total amounts to sixteen ships, registering in the aggregate upwards of 26 000 tons. Of this it is probable that five will be got off the current month. Regarding the pooling of the Pacific roads there is no new developments. Contracts are to go in force to-day, shippers having the option of which route their freight shall go forward. The prospects are that the southern route will be most patronized for the present.
